Message from the Steering Committee Chairs and General Chairs
QRS 2020

2020 is a very special year. It is the 20\textsuperscript{th} anniversary of the IEEE International Conference on Software Quality, Reliability, and Security from the inauguration of Asia-Pacific Conference on Quality Software, a predecessor of QRS, which was first held in Hong Kong in October 2000.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the conference, originally from July 27 to 31, is rescheduled to December 11 to 14. The venue is also changed from Vilnius, Lithuania to Macau, China. In addition, QRS 2020 is organized in a hybrid mode. Authors have two options: in-person or remote online presentations.

Nevertheless, the focus of the conference remains the same with Q representing \textit{Quality}, R for \textit{Reliability}, and S for \textit{Security}. As usual, this year’s technical program consists of many components, including:

- Research Track (regular and short papers)
- Industry Track
- Fast Abstract Track
- Workshops
- Keynote and Invited Speeches

The conference provides a platform for experts and scholars from all over the world to exchange and share their latest research and application results in the field of software quality, reliability, and security. It gives practitioners an opportunity to express their needs so that the academic community can better understand the challenges critical to the software industry and propose potential solutions.

QRS 2020 is sponsored by the IEEE Reliability Society with additional support from Macau University of Science and Technology and Macau Convention Center.

We would like to thank all the volunteers, authors, and attendees for their valuable contributions and participations to make this conference more successful every year. We hope you will enjoy the conference and the beautiful city of Macau.
